WHY CONTAINERS?

SUSTAINABILITY

Each year millions of shipping containers are left dormant in US warehouses and shipyards since they are too costly to melt down or send back. IPME up-cycles these containers into reusable branded event spaces. Projects we've built have received eco-friendly recognition, including the "Green Design Award".

DURABILITY

Shipping containers are built to take a beating for years hauling commerce at sea and enduring harsh climates. As more events move outdoors for safety, containers are quickly becoming the go-to solution for pop up activations

PORTABILITY

Whether it's on the beach or the side of a mountain, IPME's modified containers have been setup just about everywhere. Since containers are built to ISO standards, they can also be transported globally via trucking, ships, or rail.

SECURITY

Shipping containers are inherently secure by design. Their robust steel walls are built to withstand over 400,000 lbs of cargo on top at sea. Last year we helped a client activate a container tour featuring 1 million dollars worth of electronic equipment. We were able to transport their entire show safely utilizing our containers.

FLEXIBILITY / QUICK SET-UP

IPME's prefabricated container booths can typically be set up one hour after arrival, which significantly reduces time and labor costs. All projects are built in-house at our Los Angeles headquarters, which also reduces additional on-site expenses.

SCALABILITY

Whether it's a single pop up activation, or a full blown event space, you can add or remove our modular container units from your project just like Lego blocks.
