Should you need informational resources to help your organization achieve Green Team status email Wade Barton: wbarton@awea.org

What is the Green Team? The idea is to evaluate how your exhibiting practices are impacting the environment via a short survey. We'll ask you about things like lighting, collateral material in your booth, how you're shipping your booth and transportation while your staff is on-site with the goal of helping you ascertain small changes you can make to reduce your impact on the environment both at CLEANPOWER and ideally - at all other shows you're exhibiting in.

Exhibitors impact the success of our sustainability efforts on-site and those who participate in the Green Team are considered for the CLEANPOWER Sustainability Leader Award - an excellent way to gain visibility to your organization's sustainable practices and drive traffic to your booth. With each exhibiting company committing to sustainable exhibiting practices and making small changes to the way they exhibit; we can have a massive positive impact!

What are the benefits? By participating in the Green Team Exhibitor Program your company and exhibition booth will receive additional recognition throughout the show cycle including:

- Highlight on Event Website
- Onsite Booth Recognition, including an opportunity to be featured on a floor decal, directing attendees to your booth.
- Booth will be included in the AWEA attendee scavenger hunt.
- Special designation in the show directory
- Special designation in the event app

All participant entries will be entered for an opportunity to receive a CLEANPOWER Sustainability Leader Award.

Congratulations to our WINDPOWER 2019 Leader in Sustainability:
