AIRPORTS

Air travel to Los Angeles is easily accessible via five airports. Please note the time/distance estimates below vary greatly depending on traffic, time of day traveling, construction and weather. As you are planning, we caution you to add 30 to 60 minutes to any travel time to/from an airport.

Los Angeles International Airport (LAX)

Los Angeles International Airport is located west of the city and is the largest airport with the most flights serving the city. It is about 17 miles, or 20 minutes, from the Los Angeles Convention Center (LACC). Regular Super Shuttle fare is about $17; taxi service is $50 to $60 plus gratuity.

Burbank Bob Hope Airport (BUR)

Burbank Bob Hope Airport is located north of the city and is also around 17 miles or 20 minutes from LACC. It is a domestic flight airport. Regular Super Shuttle fare is about $26; taxi service is $55 to $65 plus gratuity.

LA/Ontario International Airport (ONT)

LA/Ontario International Airport is located to the east, in the community of Ontario, California. It is 45 miles, or 45 minutes, from LACC. Regular Super Shuttle fare is about $71; taxi service is about $150 plus gratuity.

Long Beach Airport (LGB)

Long Beach Airport is south of L.A. located in Long Beach, California. It is a domestic airport that is 27 miles, or 45 minutes, from LACC. Regular Super Shuttle fare is approximately $75, or a flat fee of $113 for up to 9 passengers; taxi service is about $85 plus gratuity.

John Wayne Airport (SNA)

John Wayne Airport is in the city of Santa Ana, in the northern part of Orange County. It offers limited international service. John Wayne Airport is about 41 miles, or 43 minutes, from LACC. Regular Super Shuttle fare is about $81; taxi service is about $150 plus gratuity.
