

The Society for Information Display Best in Show Awards

Six years ago, the Society for Information Display initiated an exciting new industry honor, the Best in Show awards, highlighting the most significant new products and technologies shown on the exhibit floor during Display Week.

For 2017, an independent panel of display experts will once again review those products, prototypes, and processes nominated for the awards on the show floor, and the winners will be selected for their ability to excite not only display experts, but the general public and press as well. SID will promote local, national, and international press coverage for the prize winners

This competition will be open to all exhibitors on the show floor during Display Week 2017. Prizes will be awarded regardless of exhibit size. This will allow exhibitors of all sizes to compete. Self-nominations are encouraged! Details of the awards criteria follow.

Nomination forms are due no later than May 1, 2017. To download the nomination form for the Best in Show Award, visit: <http://www.sid.org/About/Awards/BestinShowAwards.aspx>

The following factors will be used by the award committee to evaluate the exhibit material:

- Timeliness and significance to the display industry of the products, prototypes, processes, and technologies exhibited

Selection and Presentation

The Display Industry Awards committee of SID will select the 2017 Best in Show award winners based on the self-nomination forms available to all organizations exhibiting during Display Week 2017 and on an onsite review of the nominated exhibits. Final selection will be made at the actual exhibition. Blue Ribbon awards will be presented to the winners at the SID Awards Luncheon on Wednesday during Display Week. (The winners will be informed on Tuesday night, prior to the luncheon on Wednesday). Winners will be encouraged to mount the blue ribbons in a visible location in their exhibit booths. Engraved bronze plaques will be provided to the winners after Display Week.
